Chairman Malm explained the purpose of the meeting was to appoint a person to fill the vacancy for Wyoming House District 10. He explained that each candidate would be interviewed individually and the order of interview would be determined by a manual drawing. He said candidates waiting to be interviewed would be sequestered in another room and would surrender their cell phones. He stated that following the interviews, the board would meet in executive session for deliberations, and the vote would be done in public.

Candidates were invited to approach the dais and select a number for the order of their interview. Sharon Fain was the first interviewee, Justin Fornstrom second, and Ron Rabou third.

Each commissioner asked questions of the candidates. Topics included water and natural resources, economic development, property tax reform, the state budget, their vision for the state's role in supporting community colleges and ensuring resources to meet evolving workforce needs, private property rights, and the candidate's qualifications for representing House District 10.

The board went into executive session at 5:11 pm.

The boards reconvened at 5:27 pm.

A motion was made by Vice Chairman Thompson, seconded by Commissioner Zwonitzer, to appoint Justin Fornstrom to fill the vacant House District 10 position. The motion carried by the following vote:
